CONTRACTS FOR SCHOOL LET TODAY

Board of Education Went Over Figures of Eleven Firms

The awarding of four contracts for the erection of Dixon's new half-million dollar high school was expected to be completed late today, as the result of an adjourned meeting of the board of education held at the south side high school last evening. The final work of signing up the contracts was in progress today and the board made public the names of the lowest bidders.

The firm of Schafer & Olson of Chippewa Falls, Wis., contractors, who are now engaged in completing a half-million dollar building project at the Dixon State Hospital and the new club house at the Dixon Country Club, was the lowest submitted for the general contracting work.

Kline & Heckman of this city submitted the lowest bid for heating, ventilating and controlling system. The local firm for a number of years past has been engaged extensively in the installation of these systems in large high school buildings.

Carson-Payson & Company of Danville, Ill., submitted the lowest bid for the plumbing and sewerage. Carstens Brothers of Ackley, Iowa, were the lowest bidders for the electrical wiring contract.

Estimate Satisfactory
Members of the board of education today stated that the estimate of the firm of architects engaged to draft the plans for the new high school, were very accurate and were highly satisfactory to the board as well as the competing contractors.

Work on the new structure is to be started as soon as possible and the building is to be completed in readiness for the opening of the high school term in 1929.

Eleven bids for the general contracting were submitted by some of the largest builders of high schools in the central west. Five contractors submitted bids for the electrical wiring, five for the plumbing and sewerage contract, and nine firms were represented in the bidding for the installation of the heating, ventilation and controlling systems.

The members of the board of education stated that they were unable to make public any figures today because of the varying range of costs of materials and equipment entered into the construction of the building.

Painfully Burned by Turpentine Blast

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Myers, residing at 112 1/2 First street, were painfully burned Monday evening about 7 o'clock in their apartment by the sudden explosion of a bottle of turpentine which was left on the edge of a lighted gas stove. Mr. Myers sustained the worst burns, his arms, hands and face being terribly burned by the hot liquid which was thrown over him by the explosion. He suffered intense pain but retained presence of mind to extinguish the flames by smothering them with a quilt before he rushed from the apartment in search of a physician.

State Highway Officer Harold Lenox, who was in the immediate vicinity at the time, saw the man, who was by that time in a semi-conscious condition, to the office of a physician, where his burns were dressed. The skin of the man's arms and hands was burned away. He was later removed to his home and was reported to be resting quite comfortably today. Mrs. Myers sustained burns below her knees which were very painful and which were dressed by a physician.

New Store in Dixon Will Open Saturday

Montgomery-Ward's new retail store in Dixon announces that it will be open for business at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning, with a full line of general merchandise, with the exception of groceries. The management plans to make the opening day a big one, and with the attractive bargains to be offered by all of the stores in Dixon on that day, Saturday should be a read letter day in mercantile history in this city.

Montgomery Ward's new store here plans to have auto bus service from the various parts of the city to their store, free of charge and to have banners and signs directing visitors to the store on River Street.

The management announces that there will be over 100 persons in the sales force on the opening day, and that about 60 will be on the force permanently.

The opening of the Dixon store is part of the company's new policy of installing 1500 new stores throughout the country.

Last Curtain Rings Down for Noted Tragedian

ROBERT B. MANTELL

Atlantic Highlands, N. J., June 27.—(AP)—Robert Bruce Mantell, noted Shakespearean actor and producer, died at his home here today after an illness of two months. He was 74 years old.

The tragedian, who had suffered a nervous breakdown, died at his estate, Brucewood. At his bedside when the end came were his wife and son and the family physician, who had been in constant attendance for the last week, when the patient showed signs of sinking.

Regarded as one of the ablest actors of his time in the portrayal of romantic parts depicting youth, beauty and the nobler traits of character, Mantell has been described as "the last of an illustrious race" in the field of tragic drama. The critic who thus referred to him was speaking of the days when tragedians such as Edwin Booth, Charles Kane, Henry Wallace, John McCullough and many others of equal fame dominated the English speaking stage.

Robert Mantell evinced a love for the stage when he reached his teens. His parents wished him to study law, but books held no attraction for the romantic youth, and at the age of 14 he was apprenticed to a wine merchant near his home at Ayreshire, Scotland. Remaining in this position for five years, he embraced every opportunity to appear in amateur theatricals, ever against the wishes of his parents.

In 1874 he left home, wandered about the British Isles for a time, and finally landed in Boston, Mass. Failing in his attempt to procure an engagement with the Boston Museum, he sailed for England, discouraged, after spending but two weeks in America.

His stage debut was made in 1876, under the name of R. Hudson, when he appeared as the sergeant in "Arms and the Man." Continuing through the provinces, he supported such actors as Charles Matthews, Barry Sullivan and Dion Boucicault, and made his second trip to the United States and his first appearance on the American stage in 1878 at Albany, N. Y., in "Romeo and Juliet" with Mme. Modjeska.

Poultry Leg-Bands to Prevent Thefts

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—The state department of agriculture has a chance to try out the efficiency of the leg-band method of "branding" chickens.

The entire flock of state standard accredited Plymouth Rocks of a Chestnut, Ill., man has been stolen. These birds were marked with leg bands bearing the inscription "Ill. Dept. Agr." with numbers between 71,101 and 71,300. Now the department has issued a statewide warning to poultry dealers to watch for these "leg" birds.

While the legbands were not designed to aid in catching thefts, it is thought they might be a help.

SUPPORT OF FARMERS IS ALSO ASKED

Permanent Chairman of Houston Meet Lets Loose His Fire

Houston, Texas, June 27.—(AP)—Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas assailed the Republican administration of the last seven years, warned against inclusion of a "wet" plank in the Democratic platform, and made a bid for farm support in his speech accepting the permanent chairmanship of the Democratic national convention here today.

The text is as follows:
The responsibility as well as the honor associated with the chairmanship of this organization is fully recognized. The obligation to serve with patience and impartiality is readily acknowledged. Seldom, if ever, have the representatives of the national Democratic party gathered under more impressive conditions. We face a notable political crisis. The exercise of sound judgment and common sense in the nomination of candidates and the demonstration of fidelity to recognized party principles constitute a sure way to harmonious differences and are essential to success in the approaching campaign.

Democrats' Mission
The Democratic party has a mission which has not materially changed since the days of Jefferson. The necessity for political reform is greater now than ever before. Our party, from its birth, has safeguarded the rights of the masses. It has championed personal liberty and opposed centralization. Jefferson sought to protect the unselfish against the employment of laws and government agencies for private profit.

Jackson aroused the public to the menace of plutocracy. Cleveland voiced resentment at the abuse of the taxing power to enrich favored groups by the exploitation of the masses. Wilson defined anew the democratic ideals of justice and equality. Since its formation the Democratic party has labored to es-

SIX OCCUPANTS OF ITALIA'S BAG PERISHED, FEAR

Noble Tells of Seeing Smoke Column From the Dirigible

Berlin, June 27.—(AP)—A second version containing additional details of a report received in Norway that the plane of Roald Amundsen was sighted by a Norwegian sealer on June 20 is contained in a special dispatch from Tromsø to the local Anzeiger.

This states that a telegram had been received from Archangel, Russia, stating that the Norwegian sealer, whose name was not mentioned, had sighted the long-missing plane on an ice floe southeast of Northeast Land. Hence ice prevented the approach of the sealer, but the crew of the plane could be discerned through a telescope, repairing the machine.

As the vessel was without radio, it handed its message to a Russian steamer which in turn sent it by wireless to Archangel.

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 27.—(AP)—Fear that six men who drifted away in the balloon part of the Italia after its crash on the Polar ice cap were dead prevailed today when it was learned that the airship had caught fire.

Of sixteen men who left aboard the dirigible for the North Pole on May 23 only six were known to be alive today. One man was killed. Three have been missing since they started afoot for land.

General Umberto Nobile said that soon after the dirigible crashed on May 25 the balloon part drifted to the east and a small column of smoke was seen rising from it after it had gone about 10 kilometers (about six miles). The balloon then crashed. Nothing has been heard of the six men aboard.

Struck Adverse Winds.
Returning from the North Pole on May 25 the Italia ran into fog, stormy weather and adverse winds. Fighting her way toward Kings Bay the dirigible at times was making a speed of less than 20 miles an hour.

Suddenly, Nobile advised, on the morning of May 25 the airship was weighted down, apparently by snow and ice forming on the bag. The craft plunged rapidly to the Polar ice cap north of Northeast Land. Nobile found it impossible to halt the rapid descent of the ship and it crashed.

Vincenzo Pomella, motor attendant, was in the stern gondola. It was ripped off in striking the ice, crushing Pomella. During the ensuing commotion he died.

The cabin and part of the upper bracing were also torn away. All those in the cabin were hurled to the ice. One of General Nobile's legs was fractured and his back injured. One of the legs of Natale Ceccioni, motor chief, was broken below the knee.

Found Comrade's Body.
Among the debris on the ice they found all the instruments in the cabin. Later the body of Pomella was found and buried in the ice.

In the meantime the balloon part of the Italia was drifting to the east, having been freed of the weight of the gondolas and part of the bracing. When it had gone about 10 kilometers a small column of smoke was seen rising from it. Nobile thought that either a gasoline or an oil tank had caught fire. The balloon crashed to the ice with its six occupants. These were Lieutenant Ettore Arduino, Italian Navy navigator; Professor Aldo Pontremoli, Italian scientist; Dr. Ugo Lago, correspondent of the Milan newspaper Popolo D'Italia; Renato Alessandrini, envelope attendant; and Calisto Ciocca, motor attendant.

Texas Tornado is Fatal to Young Man

Wichita Falls, Texas, June 27.—(AP)—A boy was killed and two other persons were injured early today when a tornado swept a path about a mile in width near the Clay-Wichita county line.

W. N. Coombs, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Coombs, of Wichita Falls, was killed when a farm house was wrecked.

The storm was accompanied by hail and a heavy rain. Many farm houses were damaged, and barns, fences and poles blown down. Much damage also was done to crops.

POLISH CABINET QUILTS
Warsaw, Poland, June 27.—(AP)—The cabinet of Marshal Pilsudski resigned today. A new cabinet under M. Bartels has been formed.

TIM MURPHY, GANG LEADER, IS MURDERED

Notorious Racketeer of Chicago, Slain Last Evening

Chicago, June 27.—(AP)—The gang guns got big Tim Murphy last night. A machine gun barrel was thrust through the window of a sedan cruising slowly by the Murphy bungalow. Murphy, standing on the lawn, was an easy target.

Fire streamed from the window of the sedan. The bedtime quiet of the neighborhood was broken by the gun's deadly rat-a-tat-tat. The knees of a giant buckled, and the blood of "Big Tim" Murphy stained the grass where he fell.

Served Prison Term
Two years ago Murphy stepped from Leavenworth penitentiary after serving a sentence for complicity in the daring Dearborn Street station robbery of 1922. When a mail truck carrying $125,000 drove up, the men drew revolvers, took the money and escaped in automobiles. The government charged that Murphy plotted and led the execution of this most daring of daylight robberies in Chicago.

Racketeer, mail robber, gambler—Murphy's name frequently was whispered in connection with police mysteries. When "Boss" Enright, who had been prospering in fields which had been Murphy's own, was shot dead at his home in 1920, Murphy was arrested. But they couldn't connect him with it.

Assumed Bodyguard
It was following his release in this case that Murphy for the first time appeared in public with the bodyguard which designates the marked man in Chicago's underworld. He was never one to carry a gun. He had no weapon when he was shot down last night.

IMPROVEMENTS STATE HOSPITAL ARE ANNOUNCED

Will Increase Capacity of Institution to 3,000

Contemplated improvements at the Dixon State Hospital which will increase the capacity of that institution to over 3,000 patients, has been announced by Dr. Warren C. Murray, managing officer. These consist of the construction of two new ward buildings, one each for the male and female inmates with a capacity of 125 patients to each ward. The buildings will be of the same type of construction of those now in use and will conform in every respect to the style of architecture. Plans have been drawn and the contracts will be awarded in the very near future. The total cost of the two buildings will be $124,000.

The list of improvements at the institution for the current year calls for extensive operations in the livestock department. The old frame barn which was destroyed by fire early last spring, is being replaced with a fine new vitrified tile cattle barn, with feed bins and storage space complete, at a cost of $60,000. This includes two silos which will be completed this fall and ready for use, thus relieving a congested condition which has prevailed for several months. The cattle barn will be located near the power house and plans for improvements on the farms also provide for the transfer of the hog sheds from farm No. 1 to the site of the new barn. A residence will later be constructed for the accommodation of the institution dayman.

The cattle barn will be equipped with modern dairy equipment throughout, with a capacity of 80 head of cattle with metal stanchions being provided for each animal. These buildings will be completed and ready for occupancy early this fall.

Because of the rapid increase in the number of patients at the Dixon institution through commitment and transfer from other institutions, two new physicians have been added to the staff. Dr. J. F. Donahoe and Dr. M. H. Wilkinson, both of Chicago, where they have been practicing, have been assigned to duty at the Dixon State Hospital.

W. M. S. Meeting Was One of Interest

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church held a meeting of much enjoyment and interest Friday afternoon with Mrs. Paul Lord. The members and guests number fourteen. After the formal opening of the meeting and some routine business, Mrs. F. D. Young spoke of a meeting which the executive committee held last Wednesday evening and it was decided to combine some of the offices of the society with the following result: Mrs. H. An unusually enjoyable and inspiring social hour followed, during which time the hostess served tempting refreshments.

Short Interviews With Famous Women

By NEA Service

Billie Burke flouts the idea that women have lost their charm through gaining their economic independence.

"How absurd!" Miss Burke bristled. "It's utterly ridiculous to say that woman's emancipation from all the wrongs the ages have heaped upon her has cost her anything of charm."

"Just the reverse is true. Her broader education, her economic freedom, the extension of her interests beyond the narrow confines of her home, the variety of her activities—all these things have added tremendously to her culture, to her understanding of life, to the building of her character and consequently to her charm."

"Of course charm of today is not expressed in just the terms of yesterday—the graceful, dainty yesteryear. But it seems to me that they are better terms now. Our grandmothers' charm was cultivated; it tinged with artifice."

"Today charm is just the natural effect of frank and wholesome living. It has the breath of the out-of-doors; the freshness and invigorating qualities of cool winds."

Girls "Y" Camp News for the Day

Local Briefs

Last night Harriet Utley and Avis felt the need of a mother very much. Ruth Kerz being very kind, held their hands for nearly an hour. This was quite a strain for her in order to hold Avis' hand she had to reach across Harriet.

Last night, after having heard various ghostly stories, Jerry Welty decided to be a ghost. She made her attack on tent 1. The girls had been discussing the incidents of the day when Minda felt something pinch her. She screamed and then Mary Bales saw two hands in the door. This frightened her and the rest of the girls and they investigated at once only to find Jerry.

Dr. Trowbridge, Mrs. Trowbridge, Margaret and Janet Anderson were here for campfire.

This morning Mr. Yohn assisted by Wilbur Stutz, Delbert Blackburn and the Camp Car put the bridge in. It proved to be too much of a strain on the car for Mrs. Yohn had a blowout later on the way to town.

Wanted: Any handkerchiefs that are not in use for my cold. Frances Forsythe.

In inspection Sunday tent 1 received first and tent 3 second. On Monday tent 2 received first and tent 4 second.

The correspondence at camp is growing quite heavy. Nellie Suter received four letters which relieved her suspense for she had had only one since she came.

Frances Forsythe and Mrs. Cline received letters very early this morning.

LaFerne Richardson left this morning to go to Fulton. Reason is unknown.

Mrs. Schmidt, Carl Buchner, Mr. Koller and Lucia Morris were guests in camp today.

Mrs. Yohn visited the city today and invested in a shine and haircut. Jerry is becoming quite expert in quilts. She can play a game in thirty minutes but she wishes that the shoes had reins.

Frances Forsythe went into town this evening.

A number of the girls were greeted with rotten eggs at the farm today.

The storm did break today but this afternoon it returned for a short time.

Mrs. Cline is among the wounded. She dropped a peach can on her foot this morning and nearly removed one toe.

The men of the camp are preparing for a great gopher hunt with the archery set.

PLAY THE GAME

Editorial by Eleanor Clayton
Some games are easy to play, both in following the directions, and in following their spirit. We like to play those games for a time but after a while we become bored. There is no struggle, no triumphant feeling when we have won. On the other hand, we learn some games with difficulty and find it hard to play them fairly and without bickering. But when we do win, then comes that wonderful feeling of victory.

Many problems in life are like the second kind of games. Some people refuse to play at all. Some quarrel or play unfairly. Others tackle their problems and win. Let us be those who play the game fairly.

SPORT SECTION

By Margaret Nagle

At three o'clock just after rest hour, we started on our Gypsy Hike. Girls has gone before and blazed a trail and so we started out to find what was to be awarded us at the end of the trail. After up hill and down hill, under and over fences and across bridges, we finally found the hidden treasure.

In the horse-shoe tournament last evening, Couple 2 which consisted of Ruth Kerz and Harriet Utley, were defeated by Couple 3, Mary Kennedy and Nellie Suter.

This evening in the horse-shoe tournament Couple 4, Margaret Nagle and Jerry Welty, were defeated by a very close score by Bunny Withers and Ruby Nattress, Couple 5.

ACTIVITIES

The fifth evening of campfire was held in the cook shack because of the rainy and cold weather.

Each tent sang a song of which the words were original, but sung to a familiar tune. Miss Thompson then started a story around the group, and each person added to it until it was finished. Mr. Yohn and Mrs. Welty each told a ghost story, and after taps all went to bed pretty much frightened.

At 10 o'clock this morning we gathered in two groups in the dining tent. Mr. Kellogg had charge of one group and Miss Kerz the other. Those under Mr. Kellogg received instruction in tinting kodak snapshots. Each person was given material and eleven very pretty pictures was the result. The people under Miss Kerz received instruction in campcraft.

They made lanterns out of tin cans. They took the lids off, wired handles on, put a design on the outside by punching holes, and then put a candle on the inside.

HUMOR SECTION

By Harriet Utley

Jerry, the incomparable comedian, has kept the sun shining for the Y girls even at midnight by her witty jokes and humorous activities. In fact, most everybody admits that she has a most remarkable sense of humor and her story telling ability, which has been patented in the U. S. A. Office, is absolutely the most confounding and amazing ever exhibited before the crown heads of Europe.

Jerry has completely overturned our camp. Witness the following events: Margaret Nagle has thrown away her gun. Minda Fleckinger and Mary Bales have finally revealed that they are afraid of ghosts and demonstrated to the occupants of tent 1 that they have strong voices. The flag is taken down in the middle of the afternoon.

Early Rising.

The gorgeous sun rose this morning as a change. However, as usual, it rose in a glimpse of its shining face, someone else was already up. It seems that it is rather hard to tell the time as early in the morning. However, the utility boys managed to get us at 6:30. They did several barbarous tasks then discovered that it was a quarter of six.

A Visit to Town.

Mrs. Yohn and a trusty attendant entered a butcher shop Tuesday morning. Our director marched up to the counter and ordered huge quantities of meat. The butcher very sweetly said, "I'll get it for you, madam." He disappeared into the back of the shop. Mrs. Yohn waited and waited, then she waited some more. Finally, after more waiting, the butcher came in with the beef that she had ordered. "The cow was easy to catch so we have the beef ready for you now but you will have to wait for the ham for the pig has just escaped down the alley," he said. So Mrs. Yohn, who desired above all things to be obliging, decided to see how it would feel to wait awhile for the butcher. So she waited for three hours. She began to wonder at the delay so she asked one of the other butchers what the trouble was. With a condescending smile he answered, "The slaughtering knife broke but a new one is coming out from Chicago by airplane."

A little while later, about an hour or so, during which time she refreshed herself with several pounds of cheese, the butcher brought in the second package of meat. Rejoicing, they wended their way homeward. But, suddenly, Mrs. Yohn remembered something. She had forgotten to stop at the Y for the mail, and of course she could not go back to camp and face Miss Thompson and Miss Kerz without the mail. After a visit to the Y they again turned toward the camp. They had almost reached the place when they heard a loud report. So, with ever-smiling faces, they mended the tire very carefully and after an uneventful ride at the rate of ten miles per hour, the greatest speed of the 1928 Ford, they arrived in camp to see the girls waiting in line for Wednesday morning breakfast.

Bridge Made Easy

2—PRE-EMPTIVE BIDS

Although the occasions are few, there are times when pre-emptive bidding is necessary and advisable.

When, then, shall two no trump or two in a suit be bid originally? Should you bid two originally? When should three or more be bid originally? What is the necessity of opening a bid of more than one?

The object of pre-empting is to shut out bidding on the part of the adversaries and prevent them from arriving at their best game-going declaration by interchanging information. It must be done in fear of something, else there is no necessity of pre-empting. The stronger your hand, the less advisable is it to pre-empt!

All authorities agree that a bid of two in a major or minor suit will not shut out bidding. This being so, what is the necessity of bidding two? Some experts bid two when holding a K Q X X in a minor or major suit. Those experts who advocate it assert that it will give partner accurate information as to this particular hold—did bid two except when holding a King. They all agree that you should K Q X X, and then only when you do not hold material strength in the other suits. Exactly what strength may be held in other suits is not definitely determined.

The disadvantage of bidding two is that it may shut out valuable information from your partner. Partner may hesitate to go to three hearts after your two-spade bid, but game may be made in hearts and not in spades. The expert may, under certain circumstances, bid two spades, recognizing the psychological moment for it. Some authorities recognize the two bid as a convention when holding a suit of six cards including the Ace-King-Queen, but thousands in different localities have not generally accepted it.

Banquet at East Jordan Church Was Enjoyable Affair

The Mother and Daughter banquet at the East Jordan church Tuesday evening was very well attended by about one hundred and twenty mothers and daughters and a few guests. #### ELITE OF RUMANIA LEARNING TO COOK

Buchares, Roumania.—(AP)—Special classes in cookery are being held for Rumanian society women at the Girls Cooking school here.

Thus dies an ancient tradition that "Ladies never know about the vulgarities of cooking."

The reason for the popularity of the "cooking class" among the elite lies for a great part in the fact that the innovation has the sponsorship of the royal family. Queen Marie

PUSH-BUTTON JOBS CLAIM THEIR TOLL

By Olive Roberts Barton
Once upon a time there was a man who dug ditches at a dollar and a half a day.

That same man now sits behind a large mahogany desk that has a row of twelve buttons along its edge. When he wants something done he touches a certain button and gives a curt order.

Occasionally the company opens up a new plant in the west, or in the south, or in Canada, and then there is a special button that starts the mammoth engines to turning thousands of miles away.

One day upon just such an auspicious occasion, a reporter was sent for an interview. He looked around the office, beheld the buttons and said blithely, "Well, Mr. Halliday, I feel like saying, 'Doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief, Rich man, poor man, beggarman, thief.' Only the rhyme is not finished. There are some buttons left. I suppose you've never christened them."

"No, I have not thought about it," answered the potentate with an amused smile. "But let me see. We might finish the verse at least. I always thought it should have an ending. How about 'Happy the man whose annals are brief?'"

The young reporter, knowing the older man's penchant for epigrams looked a bit puzzled. "That means," he inquired politely, "that the good die young, I suppose?"

"Oh, no! Not at all," replied the other. But from the look in your eyes I rather thought you might be envying me those buttons and having other people do my work."

"Most people think a button-pushing job a sinecure. It may surprise you to know that I worry more about my job than does my office boy or stenographer. It is entirely true, however, I feel my responsibility more every day I live. Every step up has taken toll of my sleep. Every button has taken a year off my life."

"That is what I meant by my little truism. I never worried until I was promoted from ditch digger to gang foreman. Before that, I wasn't afraid of losing my job. After that, I was. That isn't my reason now, of course, although it is possible I may lose it any time. But as I advanced, my responsibilities grew."

"Don't envy me those buttons too much, young man."

NEW BATHING COSTUMES PIRATICAL OR TAILORED

By Margaret Green
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)
Paris.—(AP)—Bathing suit design—this season are in a nautical and piratical mood.

Insignia of the sailor's craft appear on the new suits. There are embroidered anchors and actual bits of rope as shoulder trimming. The pirate's knotted kerchief is indispensable. The long pirate ear rings in rubberized seaworthy jewelry are sometimes a part of the bathing cap.

An important house is showing extremely rakish and piratical suits with long black trousers with the sailor flare. With them are worn beige jerseys and red sashes.

Jersey capes with fringe made of strips of jersey bear out the pirate note. They are thrown over one shoulder with a long, sweeping movement.

Other costumes give the appearance of a tailored suit. They are made in crepe materials in pastel colors, and have a wrap around skirt and jacket which are easily divested as the mermaid in jersey and tights emerges ready for a plunge.

Tradewell-Ross Wedding Celebrated

The Rantoul Press and Chanute Field News of Thursday, June 21, carries the following account of the wedding of Miss Helen Tradewell, former Dixon girl, and Clarence Ross, both of Rantoul:

Miss Helen Tradewell, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Tradewell, and Clarence S. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Ross, both of this city, were married at 3 o'clock last Sunday afternoon at the First M. E. church in Urbana, the pastor, the Rev. G. L. Losh, performing the single ring ceremony. Only immediate members of the two families were present. Mrs. Ross was attended by her sister, Miss Alice Tradewell, and Mr. Ross by his brother, Fred Ross.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served to twelve guests at the home of the bride. The rooms and table were decorated with bowls of pink roses and pink cathedral candles.

WIDER PAVEMENTS.

The movement aiming at wider pavements on state highways carrying heavy traffic should have the support of every automobile driver. It should be especially popular in Dixon, for it will mean a very large increase in tourist travel through this city and a substantial addition to the cash income of Dixon merchants. Tourist travel does mean a financial benefit to any territory. Wisconsin benefits to the extent of 100 millions of dollars annually because of that state's attractive summer resorts and good roads.

Dixon and the Rock River Valley have better roads and the scenery and summer resort possibilities are not surpassed anywhere in Wisconsin or in all the middle west.

Iowa's new 100 million dollar bond issue for good roads will add greatly to the volume of tourist travel over the Lincoln Highway through Dixon, because the improvement of the Lincoln Highway through Iowa will divert uncounted thousands of cars that have been taking other routes to avoid Iowa's mud and dust.

Speeding cars, reckless drivers, bright lights and mammoth trucks have made the 18 and 20-foot highways dangerous where traffic is heavy. The cautious motorists are avoiding routes and the widening to forty feet of the Lincoln Highway will make travel on this route a pleasure instead of a menace. The enormous increase in traffic has brought the load on the 20-foot highway almost to the "saturation point" on busy routes, as President Hayes of the Chicago Motor Club points out. The Telegraph does not agree with the Chicago Motor Club's attitude on the gasoline tax, but we are for them in their campaign for a forty-foot road on the Lincoln Highway from Chicago to the Mississippi River.

DOCTORS ON THE QUOTA BASIS.

More even distribution of physicians throughout the state is being attempted by the Missouri board of health. Naturally the young graduate sees big money more easily earned in the centers of population, and the general practitioner in the small community is becoming more and more scarce.

It does not necessarily follow that the young practitioner becomes one of those earning big money and earning it because of greater skill in the cities, and the conclusion of the board is that doctors needing practice and communities needing physicians should be brought together.

There is sound basis for the conclusion and the state board is the proper body to bring about the readjustment.

Latest statistics show that for every physician there are 608 persons in Missouri, but the cities have more than that proportion. It is said in this connection that there are communities in Missouri where health conditions vary and more physicians are needed in one than in another. All these situations are to be taken into consideration in the survey which is to be made available for doctors. Of course there can be no rule that will govern physicians involuntarily. They only are offered the information upon which to base their conclusions. The board is permitted to emphasize the needs of one locality and the lack of needs of more doctors in another locality.

The Al Smith forces from New York held out an olive branch to the other Democrats when they arrived in Houston. But what most of the other Democrats were asking was "Who gets the grapes?"

Charles F. Brush, Cleveland inventor, has given $500,000 to be used in limiting the population. A good start would be annihilation of all males and females who say "for cryin' out loud."

Will Hays says 250,000,000 people attend moving pictures weekly. We'd like to see the statistics on those who merely go to the movies to hold hands.

George Remus, Cincinnati bootleg king and wife slayer, has been freed from the asylum as sane. Ohio is certainly well posted on the advanced legal methods of the day.

A doctor says the feminine ability to weep at will is a gift. Is one and usually gets one.

A movie actress married her first husband the other day for the third time. When you sink the third time, they say, you're usually all through.

THE KNYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

A swinging turn each Tiny took. Then Clowny loudly shouted, "Look! The monkeys whose tails were swinging on are getting rather mad. Aw, let's not do it any more. Perhaps I'll make their poor tails sore. Let's call them both down from the trees. That ought to make them glad."

"That is the very thing to do," said Scouty. "It was kind of you to make that good suggestion." Then he turned and shouted, "Hey! You monkeys come down here with me. You've been as nice as you could be, and given us a dandy swing, so now we all will play."

The monkeys squeaked, and looked around, and then they hopped down to the ground. They both appeared to understand what Scouty just had said. The biggest one turned 'round and 'round, while doing flip-flops over the ground. And then he stopped quite suddenly, and stood upon his head.

The Tingles laughed in merry glee.

"Say, he's as clever as can be," cried Carpy. "I just wish that I could do swell stunts like that. He knows we're laughing at him, too. I'll bet some other stunts he'll do." And then the monkey made one grab, and put on Coppy's hat.

Some other monkeys watched this one and then they joined right in the fun. They got down on their four paws and began to squeal and hop. "Let's teach them leap frog," Carpy cried. And soon a leap-frog game was tried. The monkeys watched; then they tried their luck, and every one went flop.

By this time it was getting late, and Clowny said, "It would be great to find a nice soft place where we can get some sleep tonight." Then Scouty cried, "You're right! I see some soft grass. Come on with me." And, as the Tingles fell asleep, the sun dropped out of sight.

(Clowny has a trick played on him in the next story).

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Marye, my dear:

Sometimes I think I must be one of those women who have no sense of humor—that I never know when people are being serious and when they are merely being amusing.

So I don't know how to take your last letter. If I thought you actually were starting out on a fresh flirtation, I should be tempted to scold and preach. But I can't believe you are serious—that you actually go out of your way to court danger as you indicated.

As a child, you loved to make people angry at you, just so you could exercise your powers of persuasion.

to make them love you again. I think you do this now.

All of which is very charming for a time, but one can cry "wolf, wolf" too often. And I have a feeling, if you persist in your foolish flirtations in quest of some sort of excitement, that in time you may find that you have taken the fine edge off your nature. You may become just as reckless as you like to make people believe you are—become the mask you are always wearing.

But I am not preaching—or I am not going to. The one thing I have learned is that I can't live your life for you, and I can't recit my own experiences so they will fit you. And if you take a certain road, you must accept its destination.

Yesterday I stopped into see your friend Stella Myers—she has a darling little boy. At three weeks he weighs 8 pounds and is about as fine a child as I have ever seen. Of course, Stella and Bill are quite mad about him.

I always thought Stella was a very superficial girl, with her short skirts, her exaggerated boyish bob and her wild ways. And yet, when I saw her with her baby, it occurred to me that I had misjudged her greatly, and that I had allowed a rather hard exterior to form my estimate of her. I

New Drug Store to Open up Tomorrow

The Howell building on First street and Pearl avenue will be thrown open to the public of Dixon and vicinity tomorrow with a fine new pharmacy, which is owned by Ben S. Schildberg of this city. For the past several months the building has been undergoing extensive changes and alterations, being put in condition for the new business in Dixon.

Mr. Schildberg was engaged in the retail drug business in this city for a period of 14 years, having severed his connection with the Public Drug & Book Company four years ago. Since that time he has organized and operated very successfully a planing mill in one of the old college buildings. All of the fixtures for the new store are the product of the Schildberg mill and are of a special design, finished in mahogany. A beautiful White Knight iceless soda fountain is an important part of the store's equipment and will be under the supervision of Everett Shaw. Mr. Schildberg will have charge of the prescription department and John Lahey of this city, a graduate of Notre Dame this spring, will have charge of the drug sales and accessories department. These department heads will be assisted by a corps of efficient clerks and salespeople.

CARE OF TEETH

President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 405 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago.)

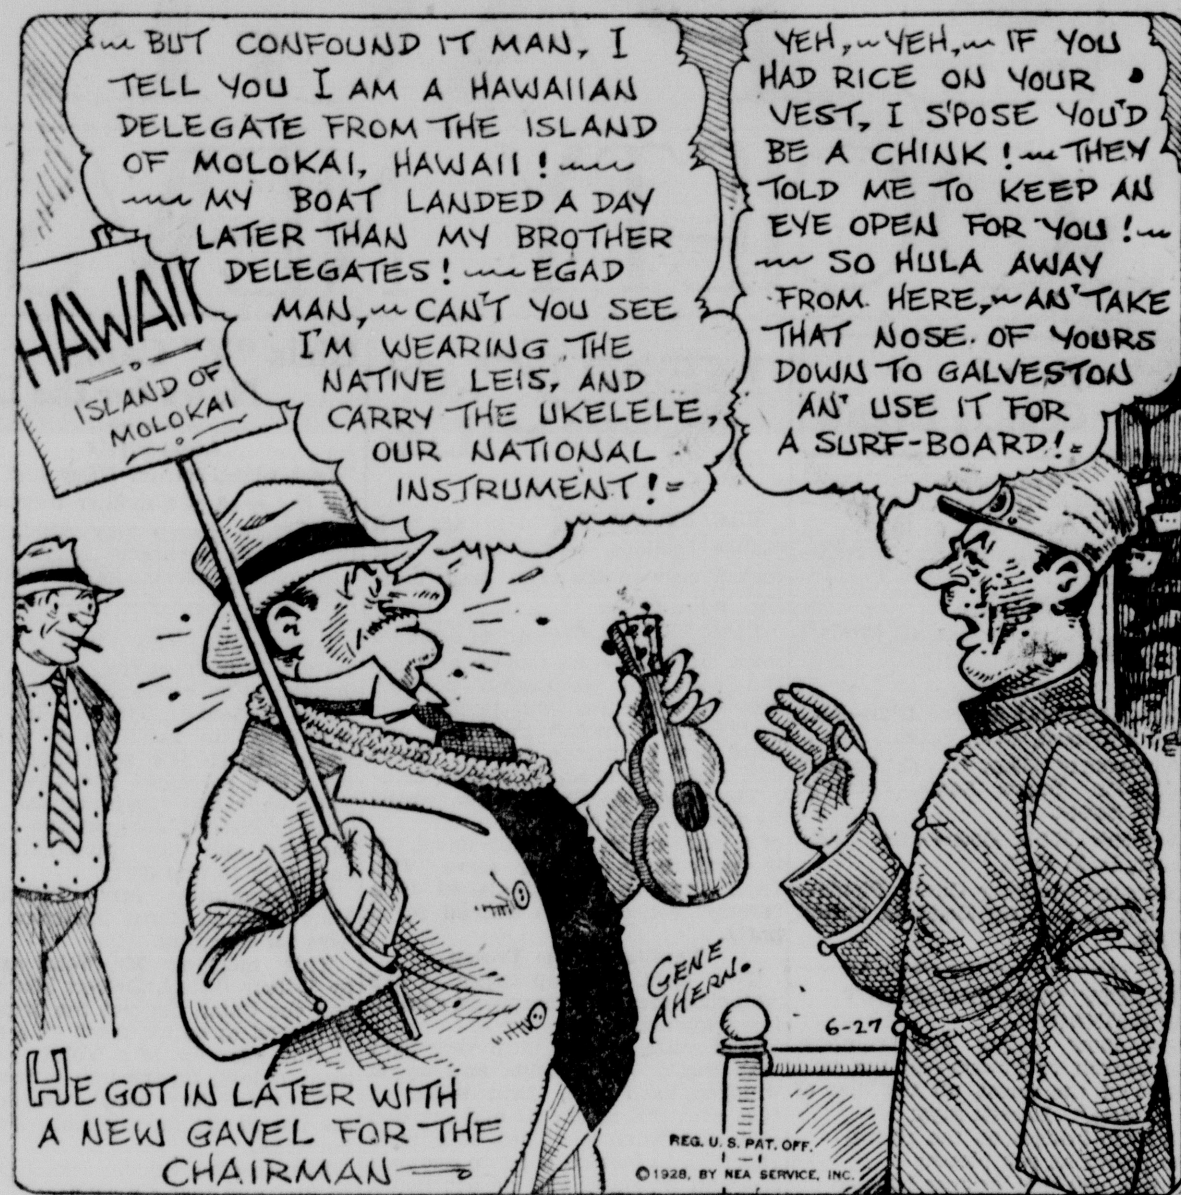

Modern civilization has brought so many complexities, and we live so artificially, so unlike Nature's intentions, that it is imperative for our health's sake to have periodic health examinations. We can not all be qualified to pass judgment on our physical condition, and valuing health, which is happiness, it behooves us to follow the advice, "Know thyself."

If we have a definite physical ailment or disease, we hurry to a competent physician or dentist, confidently believing in his earnestness of purpose, to seek relief; just so we should have the same degree of faith in their sincerity to call upon them at periodic intervals for health examinations.

The perfectly healthy body is the most marvelous, the most perfectly synchronized machine there is, but like the internal combustion motor it can not go at high speed and work properly without pure wholesome food or fuel in proper amounts, or proper elimination of wastes. For a longer life of usefulness, comfort and dependability, periodic examinations by some one competent must be made, for early detection of defects and deterioration and their correction.

A physical UNEASE, the reason for which is obscure, is nearly always an initial symptom of beginning DISEASE.

The mouth is the very front gate to the body, through which all nourishment for the body must pass, and it should seem obvious to every one that at least equal effort should be spent in its daily hygiene with other parts of the body. The mouth is 100 per cent perfect as an incubator and harborer of disease germs, if in an unclean condition. If the teeth are kept habitually clean, the reward is mouth health. It is conceded that about 80 per cent of preventable diseases of the body enter the body by way of the mouth, so the rational conclusion is that we should give the mouth consistent daily care. The state of health of the mouth is a good index to the state of health of the body in most instances.

The majority of teeth today come into the mouth with defects of information, which need early detection and correction, and this is the most important step in prevention of tooth decay and infection of the mouth.

A child should begin having periodic examinations of his teeth as soon as he has teeth, and this should continue through life at intervals of four to six months. This is imperative because teeth differ from most parts of the body, in that nature does not provide for repair and replacement of their structure which may be destroyed by decay or accident.

DELEGATES ARE NURSING HOARSE THROATS TODAY

Almost Ruined Vocal Organs Cheering Key-note's Address

BY BYRON PRICE
Associated Press Staff Writer
Houston, June 27—(AP)—While the Democratic sifting of men and issues here toward a decision today in committee room and caucus, the National Convention turned again to that great American political pastime of stump speaking to fill up with partisan fervor its second daylight session.

This time the center of the speaking stage, held for a colorful hour last night by the convention key-note, was assigned to Robinson of Arkansas, long a Democratic stalwart, leader of his party in the Senate, and out in front among the party ticket. His installation as permanent chairman of the big quadrennial pow-wow furnished the occasion for preaching of the Democratic gospel with the embellishment of that pungent phrasology and commanding gesture of which he is master. His exhortation and a few technicalities of organization made up the budget of the session.

Delegates Hoarse
The second day of the convention found many of the delegates already hoarse from cheering—with much more to come. Crowding into Sam Houston hall last night in the wake of a downpour of rain that spilled waterspouts through the roof and drove temperatures downward to a point of real comfort, both delegates and spectators cheered to the echo a rousing Democratic assault on Republicanism and all its works, delivered by the temporary chairman and key-note, Claude G. Bowers of New York. Twice he strove that ranked almost as demonstration—once when he praised Woodrow Wilson and again when he demanded that the hand of Republican oppression be removed from the throat of the farmer. Before the convention goes to bed tonight it may have seen some real demonstrating, for there is a possibility that nominating speeches for candidates may be made at an evening session.

Although the battle over first place on the ticket is conceded generally to have ended in victory for Governor Smith, much interest centered today in caucuses by the delegations from Ohio and Oklahoma, the last to decide where they will go on the first roll call. The two state meetings were called for the same hour, a little in advance of the time set for opening the convention itself. It was unquestioned that a decision to throw Smith at once the Ohio and Oklahoma votes his managers expect him to get eventually, would settle the whole question on the first ballot.

Framing Platform
The other headline among convention disputes, the disagreement over the prohibition plank, was having its inning meantime before the platform committee, with more than a possibility that in the end it would have to be disposed of on the floor of the convention itself. Late last night a group of Democratic "done dries" organized to war for the party declaration endorsing the dry laws without qualification. Already a contingent on the other side has asked the platform committee to put in a plank for modification. It is expected that the bulk of the Smith strength, constituting an overwhelming majority of the convention, will reject both of these proposals and accept instead a pronouncement for enforcement of the constitution and the law.

Convention officials, while thankful for the decided drop in temperature that followed last night's thunder-shower, hoped today that if any more rain is to fall during the convention period it will not come down either during or immediately preceding a session in newly erected Sam Houston hall. Some of the arriving delegations for the evening session found their floor sections soaked, and water still dripping merrily down from the wet rafters after the shower was over. A small torrent had descended on the speakers' stand itself, and telegraph instruments in the nearby press section were flooded out. But the storm hand ended in time to permit the evening session to proceed in comparative comfort, with only a stray drop projecting itself downward here and there to surprise an unsuspecting delegate.

Forgot Elements
Anyway, the perversity of the elements quickly was forgotten when Chairman Bowers warmed up to his speech. The key-note, an editor, writer for the New York Evening World, is a small man with a not overly-large voice. But he lashed out his sentences against the Republicans like a baseball pitcher throwing curves, and the delegates liked it. The amplifiers carried so well that he kept the attention of the folks in the farthest bleacher, so distant that they must have been unable to distinguish much of the physical lineaments of the man who was addressing them. Applause accompanied the speech all the way as the speaker reviewed the oil scandal, recalled how Daugherty was driven from the cabinet, traced out the goings and comings of Will Hays with the celebrated Sinclair bonds, attacked Secretary Mellon as a Republican dictator without sympathy for Democratic government, and fired a few shots at the protective tariff. The farm relief demonstration interrupted the hour's speech about midway.

Mild Demonstration
It began when one of the official convention bands struck up a noisy air as the delegates were on their feet cheering. As the band joined in, a North Dakota delegate took up the standard of his state and carried it backward and forward across the front of the hall. For a while he was a one-man parade, but other state standards fell into line as the music and cheering went on and ten minutes had elapsed before the place cards of the states were all back at their stations.

During all of this time the great bulk of the delegates remained in their places, and the parade seemed comprised of only two or three marchers for each state standard. Many who did not march, however, joined in the cheering and urged the demonstrators to prolong their tramp about the hall.

The evening keynote was an innovation, designed to bring this part of the convention to the ears of the greatest possible audience of radio listeners.

Seat Smith Delegates
By overwhelming votes the credentials committee early today seated twenty-six delegates pledged or instructed for Governor Smith.

Foremost in interest was the delegate contest from Louisiana in which a block of twenty Smith-pledged votes were given preference over a slate claimed by Senator Reed. Of the forty-nine votes recorded only seven favored the seating of the Reed faction.

The other six Smith delegates seated were the Canal Zone faction headed by Mrs. L. O. Keen, National Committeewoman, who was accorded an unanimous vote over the uninstructed but Reed-inclined ticket headed by National Committeeman Frank T. Hamlin.

Following the vote of the credentials committee, the members on the body from Missouri, North Carolina, Alabama, Texas and Florida attempted to reach a conclusion as to whether a minority report would be filed with the convention on the Louisiana fight, thus bringing the matter to the floor. No agreement was reached.

KEYNOTER FLAYS REPUBLICANS IN OPENING ADDRESS

Bowers Says Lincoln Has Been Repudiated by the G. O. P.

Houston, Texas, June 27—(AP)—Summoning the democratic party to a war of extermination against "privilege and pillage", Claude G. Bowers told the Democratic National Convention in his keynote speech last night that the republicans had repudiated the leadership of Lincoln and openly adopted the Hamiltonian theory of government for the benefit of the wealthy and powerful.

In sentences loaded with the shrapnel of irony and invective, the New York Evening World editorial writer called the roll of the scandals of the last two Republican administrations; declared the portion of the farmer had become one of thorns and thistles while other industries fattened on tariffs and subsidies; asserted that "the plunder band of the power monopoly" was threatening to tighten its grip on public utilities; described the Coolidge policy in Latin-America as "dollar diplomacy" conducted in the interest of American business; accused the party in power of having sent "bureaucratic agents swarming over the land like the locusts of Egypt"; and warned his fellow Democrats that the Republicans now were seeking to "drug the conscience of the nation with the doped soothing syrup of a fake prosperity."

Asks What Prosperity
"We want to know what prosperity they mean," he said. "They point to a few powerful corporations enjoying the pap of paternalistic privilege and our answer is that you cannot judge the prosperity of a people by the earnings of a privileged monopoly."

"Four million jobless men are not prosperity; a million abandoned farms is not prosperity; the utter ruin of the basic industry of America is not prosperity; the failure of 4,000 banks in the seven years of normalcy is not prosperity; the failure of 23,146 commercial houses in 1927 is not prosperity."

"Do they offer us their record of the payment of eight billions of the public debt up to July of last year? Our answer is that six and a third billion of this amount was paid with the money or the cash assets of the Wilson administration."

"Do the yoffer us their record of economy? Our answer is that with the elimination of the interest on war debts, the last three years of this regime has cost the people more than four and a quarter billion more than the last three peace years of the Wilson administration."

"Mythical prosperity, mythical economy, mythical facts, mythical figures, and mythical men—the last eight years may well be treated by the historian of the far future as the mythical age of American history."

Attacks on Mellon
The key-noteer directed his accusations repeatedly at Secretary Mellon whom he described as a disciple of Hamilton and the direct personal beneficiary of governmental policies which the Republicans were now refusing to extend to the farmer. In tracing out the veterans bureau, Daugherty and Teapot Dome scandals, he recounted how "Will Hays had sought to turn over the Sinclair bonds to Mellon, who he said 'made no protest against the party taking its share out of the pot filled by the pillaging of the nation's property'."

Declaring that at Kansas City it was Hamilton, and not Lincoln to whom the Republican party bowed in homage, Mr. Bowers added that "it could hardly keep the Lincoln mask on its face, and Sinclair's money in its chest". He wound up a detailed denunciation of centralized authority in government and finance with this prediction:

"Give the plunder band but eight years more of such governmental operation and a combination of power companies will put a few men in control of the public utilities of a mighty empire. Once in possession and entrenched, the plunder-bund of the power monopoly cannot be dislodged by the fighting force of a dozen Andrew Jacksons."

Farm Situation Disgrace
The speaker described the farm situation as a disgrace to American civilization.

"And what does the ruling caste say to this?" he asked. "It calls it 'temporary depression'. And what does it propose? It proposes that the farmers shall become better business men."

"Now when it suits the pleasure of the privileged to legislate money into its coffers, it is applauded by the claqueurs as patriotic statesmanship; but when the farmer demands his share in the unhappy game of paternalism they denounce him as a radical and a crank."

"One day the head of the state by a scratch of the pen increased the tariff lost of the pig iron industry by fifty per cent; and the next day he delivered a homily to the farmers on the wickedness of expecting profit from a governmental act."

"We do not ask paternalistic privilege for the farmer, but we do demand that the hand of privilege shall be taken out of the farmer's pockets, and off the farmer's throat."

Mr. Bowers appealed to the history of the Jackson and Wilson administrations to refute any charge that democratic presidents are enemies of business, but added that by "business" the democracy meant small business as well as large, while to a few powerful corporations enjoying the pap of paternalistic privilege and our answer is that you cannot judge the prosperity of a people by the earnings of a privileged monopoly."

"Four million jobless men are not prosperity; a million abandoned farms is not prosperity; the utter ruin of the basic industry of America is not prosperity; the failure of 4,000 banks in the seven years of normalcy is not prosperity; the failure of 23,146 commercial houses in 1927 is not prosperity."

"WE ARE GROWING UP TO BEAUTY" IS TAFT'S STATEMENT

Noted Sculptor Tells of Advance in Public Appreciation

"We are Growing Up to Beauty" is the theme of an interview by Lo-rado Taft, one of America's foremost sculptors, with the artist and sculptor of the Blackhawk statue at Oregon, and a frequent visitor in the Rock River valley, published in the July issue of Art and Architecture, and reprinted by The Telegraph under special permission. Mr. Taft says:

We are going to see before long in the farm country of America, perhaps sooner than most of us believe, the beginnings of a noble rivalry in beauty. And it is about time we had such an awakening.

Of all so-called civilized nations we in America are the least artistic. For this there are good reasons. Our Puritan ancestors turned their backs upon art. To them painting and sculpture meant idolatry, for much of ancient and modern art was devoted to the gods and, later, art was associated with the church from which they had revolted.

The struggle for livelihood in a new world left little time or means to think of beauty, much less to create it. And then our hard-working, severe-thinking forebears were inclined to scoff at beauty—pretty things were evidence of useless vanity and trifling light-mindedness, if not even a little bit immoral.

We have been slow to abandon this unholy attitude. Too long indifferent to the natural beauty amidst which we live, some of which we have needlessly destroyed, we have done very, very little indeed to add to it.

My own great state of Illinois, in which I was born and where my home has always been, is 400 miles long and 250 miles broad at its widest extent. We have something like 500 towns of more than a thousand people each. Yet in all this state outside of Chicago I do not know of a dozen works of art that I would think of a taking a stranger to see. As a rule our architecture is commonplace and our monuments are pitiful; fountains and art galleries simply do not exist.

You remember stories you have heard of men freezing in blizzards, unable to find their way, when they were not more than a few yards from their own homes. You recall the incident of the British sailors on our Great Lakes who, parched with thirst, did not know they were sailing on fresh water. Not even those experiences seem to me to be more poignant, more pitiful, than that anyone should struggle through life when the path might be illumined by beauty all the way.

I have known plain, hard-working men and women to whom every day of life was a joyous adventure because of their eyes for the beauty on and around their farms. They were not those who look without seeing and saw the sparkling marvel of the dew-gemmed spider of a blossom, clover field, and who could find time to stop to listen to the music of the brown thrasher singing atop a maple tree.

To their tribe belonged also the old farmer's down in mid-Illinois where the land lies flat for miles, who leaned on his front gate in the late afternoon and watched the cloud banks piling higher and higher across the west before the threatening thunder.

"I haven't seen the Alps," he said, "nor the Rockies. But I do see the mountains of the prairies!"

People in America are learning to make beauty as well as to see it. We do not build as many boxes and call them houses as we used to. We see lawns and shrubs and flowers around farm homes more every year and better planned. In the cities we are making parks and water-front drives and adorning them with sculpture.

In a way cities are trying to make a little of the country within their midst. More people are going to the art museums in the cities and more exhibits of good pictures are being shipped from town to town to be viewed by those who cannot go to the galleries and museums. We are beginning to see that beauty has a cash value—that an artistic store attracts more customers, that a beautiful house and grounds will sell at a higher price.

The "noble rivalry in beauty" that I spoke of a while ago will grow, I feel sure, out of our modern conditions. With motor cars and good roads all of us go far afield; the beauty that we find elsewhere we desire around us. Communities, anxious to attract travelers their way, will struggle to make themselves beautiful so people will want to come.

When one part of a community beautifies itself, other parts will adorn themselves.

When one farm home surrounds itself with a lovely landscape, others will be impelled to do likewise.

The inspiration to much of the art of the past came from the country; we face the prospect that in the future art will come back to this country.

I recall a glorious day spent some years ago among the old masters in the cathedral of Florence. In the late afternoon, when the sun was streaming across the Italian landscape, I found myself on the lofty dome of the cathedral from where I could see far about the environs of the city. I had lived that day with the great Italians of the fifteenth century: Donatello and Ghiberti and Luca della Robbia and their younger colleagues. Benedetto da Maiano, Minio da Fiesole and Verrochio of Settignano.

From the cathedral top I could see Fiesole, a little village on the heights. Where, I asked, was Majano? A little farther up that valley, east of Fiesole, I was told. Settignano was on another hillside near by. Then I realized that these great artists were once country boys, boys who had come from the fields and vineyards into Florence to see the great paintings and works of sculpture they had heard about, had gone home to meditate under the olive trees and returned inspired to do great works for themselves.

Once I asked James Whistler, Riley why so many of our famous poets and artists had come from the country. He replied:

"It is the necessity for self-amusement. City boys and girls have movie shows on each corner; they do not have to use their imaginations at all; they do not have to think for themselves; but the country boy, following the plow, may have a dream of something else that glorifies his work."

I often think of the drab bareness of thousands of farmsteads, and of thousands of country towns, with hardly anything beautiful about them except the lovely country girls—and what a deary setting for them! Only the picture show for diversion, as a rule.

Before long, surely, we shall find rural sections competing with each other in building community houses where beauty can be within and without, towns competing with each other over the appearance of parks and streets, and farmers competing with each other in producing handsomely landscaped grounds and yards. Beauty is not expensive, for trees and shrubs and flowers grow in the sun and rain, asking only that someone plan a good place for them to be. Most of the state universities have landscape men who will help with the planning.

Usually the farthest spots, which ought to be the loveliest spots, are the ugliest places in the countryside. I am glad there are, however, thousands of homes where there is pride and a desire for beauty. And not all the features anywhere are bad. Silos add a charming note to the landscape. They look like Norman towers. I don't know whether farm people care for them as Norman towers but we artists delight in them.

We have in Illinois an Art Extension Committee, created under the leadership of Dr. Hieronymus, community adviser of the state university. This committee's job is to help develop an appreciation of the natural beauties of the state and to add to that a desire for manmade works of art which add to the fullness of life. The interest in this activity has amazed us; we hope the idea may be carried into all the states.

The desire for art and for beauty cannot be forced upon a people. We can develop and encourage but we have to wait for it to take root. Yet I am sure it is perceptible that all the time more and more of us are learning that life, to be pleasurable and successful, requires something besides food, raiment, roof and gasoline. That something else is beauty and loveliness, whether conferred by nature or by the art of man. No one has a better opportunity to live fully, to enjoy that something else, than has the farmer.

WHO'D FORGET THAT?

Cincinnati—A man must be terribly absent-minded to forget to kiss his wife on his wedding day and not remember until she reminded him the next day. Yet, that's what Lawrence King did, according to his wife's divorce petition. In addition, she charges, that first kiss was the last, for he left her immediately and went to live with another woman.

CONSTRUCTIVE VACATIONING. Many people take vacations to obtain a rest from their work and then discover that it takes about two months of work following the vacation to rest up from the effects of the vacation.

This is vacation time all over the North American continent. It is a season when the office seems dull and one has visions of the "great open spaces" with green trees, cool breezes and fishing poles.

Vacations are usually planned with only one object in view and that is to have a good time, with pleasant amusements. Frequently one finds, after resuming his customary daily grind, that he is much worse off than before in health and spirits, with sunburn and tired limbs. But there is no reason why there should be any unpleasant after effects of a vacation.

A change from the habits to which one is accustomed during the rest of the year should be productive of marked benefit. Here is a splendid opportunity for us to adopt a healthful regime which will prepare us for the heavy work of the coming winter.

It is advisable during vacation time to put aside all thoughts of worry. This is not as easy to do as to advise, but it is good to amuse yourself with simple pleasures such as swimming, riding or perhaps, fishing. The mental worker would do well to become an ardent physical culturist, turning his thoughts to physical development, taking long hikes, measuring the distance each day until he is walking five or ten miles daily. It is a good time to perfect the new swimming strokes you have been so anxious to learn.

Do not labor under the delusion that during vacation time you can stuff your body with "hot dogs" and candies which you do not eat while doing your regular work. Dietetic discretions must be observed if one is to return to his regular work with a new lease on life. If you "feed up" too much at this time you will be months in recovering from the poison generated in your system through this foolish gormandizing, and diseases may start which will take a long time to cure, even with careful dieting.

This is the season to eat plentifully of fresh fruit, green vegetables and to cut down on heavy foods, such as starches and meat. Do not try to keep cool with ice cream. You will find that this food is very rich in heating materials, and will only cool temporarily. Drink plenty of plain water, neither too hot nor too cold, and thus give your eliminative functions a chance to flush out the excessive impurities and wastes.

Seek healthful amusements, but do not spend your time sampling the tempting confections at the corner candy store. If between your swimming and exercise period, time hangs heavily on you, it is well to rest under the green trees, reading light magazine stories of romance or adventure, but nothing too deep or philosophical.

Rest periods with an occasional short nap will refresh you and make you all the more eager to get back to some healthful exercise, but do not allow yourself to get that "lazy feeling," since physical rest is not as much needed as mental and physical diversion.

You can re-create yourself not so much by idleness and gluttony as by participating in joyful games, and in the observation of the ways, powers and harmonies of nature.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Subscriber asks: "What causes excessive nose bleed in a boy nine years old? Has continued since he was three years old. Never a day goes by without at least one."

ANSWER: Your child probably has especially sensitive nasal membranes and treatment may be necessary to bring about a firmer tone to these structures. Go to a doctor who uses the localized ultra-violet light treatment. This treatment consists in raying the inside of the nose with actinic light. It is just the same as using concentrated sunlight. If you cannot find a doctor who has this equipment, go to a nose specialist who can give you some remedy you can apply several times daily to toughen the sensitive membranes.

QUESTION: Housekeeper asks: "Will you please print instructions for making the fruit whips given in your weekly menus?"

ANSWER: The fruit whips may be made of cooked apricots, peaches, apples, prunes, figs, etc., by first mincing the fruit and adding to the whites of well beaten eggs. Do not add sugar or any other seasoning. For a change, the whip may be placed in the oven and slightly browned on top.

QUESTION: J. M. B. asks: "Can an inherited venereal infection cause insanity in a child? He is a strong, healthy child but acts strange at times and has terrible temper tantrums. His father died from an infection he thought cured in youth."

ANSWER: It is possible the boy's bad temper could be caused by a hereditary blood disease, but it is better to believe that his tantrums are caused from digestive disturbances as this is usually the case. If you teach him to eat correctly and live with other good habits, you will also have done everything you can to eradicate any inherited tendency.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Be not wise in your own conceits.—Romans 12:16.

Every man, however little, makes a figure in his own eyes.—Henry Home.

A Grimsby, England, woman gave such a vigorous tug on her Russian boot that she broke her left thigh bone.

It is, after all, the engine that puts these cars ahead

Why do two cars dominate the fine car field? Why are these two cars more complimented by adaptations of their design and furnishings than any other? It is because Cadillac and LaSalle offer more in everything that assures owner pride and satisfaction. And because there is no other car with such an engine as the famous 90-degree, V-type, 8-cylinder, built by Cadillac exclusively for Cadillac and LaSalle cars. Volume constantly growing makes lower prices possible without sacrificing one pennyweight in value.

LaSalle prices, $2350 to $2875. Cadillac prices, $3295 to $3950. All prices f.o.b. Detroit.

"CHIPS FROM WASHINGTON"

by John H. Byers

Washington, D. C.
Washington Bureau, Telegraph.
June 24, 1928.

Room 116, House Office Building.
"Charlie" Curtis, Vice-Presidential nominee, will get the vote of the Indians in the United States, and there are 175,000 eligible to vote. Indian blood flows through the Senator's veins. Senator Curtis is a one-fourth Kaw Indian. Officials of the Bureau of Indian Affairs of the Interior Department anticipate that more than the usual number of Indians will cast their votes during the coming elections. There are 350,000 Indians scattered over the Nation, bureau officials say, and more than half of this number, or 175,000 are eligible to vote. All Indians who are of the proper age and have complied with local laws can vote. By the act of June 2, 1924, Congress conferred citizenship upon all non-citizen Indians born within the territorial limits of the United States. Prior to the passage of this measure about two-thirds of the Indians of the country were already citizens. There were provisions of the law by which Indians became citizens prior to June 2, 1924. Edgar B. Merritt, assistant Indian commissioner, pointed out that Oklahoma, in which the Kaw Indians are now located, has 120,000 Indians, and South Dakota has 25,000. Arizona has 44,000; Minnesota, 14,300; New Mexico, 23,000; North Carolina, 12,000; North Dakota, 10,000; Washington State, 12,000, and Wisconsin, a like number. The District of Columbia is credited with 37 Indians.

The Quakers of the United States will vote for Herbert Hoover. He is a Quaker and attends the church of that faith in Washington. The Quakers of California have sent a letter of congratulation to the candidate for president. It follows:
"The Friends Church in California feels a comforting satisfaction in the call that has come to thee to the highest place of influence in national and world leadership. We wish to congratulate thee on that call."

With the Indians and the Quakers behind the Republican ticket it should get somewhere and assume quite a lead when the votes are counted. Pennsylvania is filled with Quakers. Hoover and Curtis should carry Philadelphia, because of the Quaker vote.

Of the great quantity of plate glass used in the United States, more than half goes into the manufacture of automobiles.

Havre, France, will build a hotel with a capacity of 2,500 people, for accommodation of trans-Atlantic passengers.

Johannesburg, South Africa, will spend $2,500,000 in constructing a new municipal electric lighting and power station.

Italians in their own country produce more than one-half of their food at home. Every square inch of soil is put to work.

The population of London, England, is nearing the 8,000,000 mark.

Since last November 13, opening date of the Holland vehicular tunnel, to the end of February of this year, 2,077,698 motor vehicles had passed through it.

Canadian dairymen recently made a shipment of cream from Montreal to London, to discover if an export trade in milk and cream might be developed, says the Ohio State Journal. Of the 83 gallons in the initial shipment all arrived in London in perfect condition, and a record was made for long-distance commercial shipment of cream.

Many new autobus lines are being started in Japan.

The hickory tree is the chief source of American turpentine.

From the winter of 1922-23 to the winter of 1925-26 inclusive, the mileage of roads kept cleared of snow increased each year at the rate of about 50 per cent.

A person is killed or injured in this country every 14 seconds in automobile accidents.

Italy imported 541 light wheel tractors from the United States in a recent month.

The city of New York spends an average of $3,500,000 a winter for removal of snow from its streets.

On the streets of Berlin, Germany, the traveling radio-concert man is replacing the organ grinder. The radio, aerial and loud speaker are mounted on wheels and platform about the size of a child's express wagon.

The first English house sparrows were brought to the United States in 1869. A shipment of 1,000 birds was released in Philadelphia public squares and parks to exterminate the caterpillars. Instead, the sparrows have spread over the country in untold millions, have carefully avoided the insects and are driving out and helping to exterminate many of our valuable birds.

Sixty-five thousand pupils of Washington elementary, junior and senior high schools are now enjoying the outdoors, taking their annual vacation. Schools will open again September 17th. The summer schools in Washington open July 2nd. Many pupils attend these summer schools.

Congressman Richard Yates is still here. I had a long and pleasant visit with him in his office the other day. Poor "Dick" cannot get over his defeat in the primaries. It is beginning to show that the disappointment was keenly felt. My judgment is that Mr. Yates will get some position under the Federal government. Everyone in the Illinois delegation is his friend. Congressman Holladay is also here, but will leave for Illinois next week, now that his children are out of school.

Congressman Don B. Colton has returned to his home in Utah, leaving Washington yesterday. The congressman told me before leaving that his friends and the members of the Republican organization of Utah wish him to announce for United States senator in the August primaries. He will, if he consents to become a candidate, oppose Senator King, the democratic senator from that state. Don Colton is an able member and would make a strong opponent to King. Colton has made a splendid record in the House.

Weather records show that the year 1816, known as "the year without a summer", had a frost and snow every month of the twelve in the Northeastern part of the United States as far south as the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

The number of sportsmen in the United States and Alaska taking out hunting licenses has steadily increased during the past few years, according to figures compiled by the Department of Agriculture. During the season of 1926-27 there were more than 5,700 licenses issued, an increase of more than 500,000 over the year preceding. New York issued the largest number in 1926-27 with 620,414. In 1923-24 there were 4,395,038 hunting licenses in the United States and Alaska. The next year there were 4,904,740 licensed hunters.

LETTER GOLF

LOTS OF THINGS DO THIS
Tides, bride's cakes, empires, and a lot of other things RISE and FALL. Even today's letter golf does. Can you do it in four strokes? One solution is on page 9.

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
- 2—You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each pump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

One solution is printed on page 9.

When the keynote's farm relief assertions brought the parade of state standards, the Illinois backers were among the first in line.

The memory of the Illinois convention representatives turned back to Samuel Insull's contributions to the campaign fund of Frank L.
Smith, Senator-elect who was denied a Republican seat, when Bowers asserted that eight years more of Re-men.

A. J. Cermak of Chicago, candi-who stubbornly sought to obtain from the Illinois delegation an expression of opinion on prohibition enforcement, is undecided whether he will carry his fight to the convention floor, should the platform committee not embody his ideas.

Michael L. Igoe, the Illinois member of the resolutions committee, favors a prohibition plank recommending enforcement under the Republican administration with a provision recognizing the right of states to petition Congress for a change in the existing laws.

Brennan is convinced that a platform means little to the average voter and regards the presidential nominee and his views as the real platform. Brennan is for Governor Smith and hopes to announce that 56 of the state's 58 votes also are for the New York executive. Besides the Cermak prohibition resolution and one by Harry M. Fisher of Chicago, bearing upon what he termed Republican corruption, Igoe today carried before the resolutions committee several farm relief planks prepared by the Illinois Agricultural Association and the State Farm Bu-

BACKERS TO TWO ILLINOISANS BUSY IN THEIR BEHALF

Hope to Have Rainey or Stevenson Vice Pres.
Candidate

BY WALTER T. BROWN
Associated Press Staff Writer
Houston, June 26.—(AP)—Reinforced by the stirring keynote address of Claude C. Bowers last night, with its preferences to and remedies for farm relief, supporters of Henry
T. Rainey of Carrollton and Lewis
G. Stevenson of Bloomington for the Democratic vice presidential nomination renewed their efforts today to obtain the aid of the Illinois delegation leaders. Both Rainey and Stevenson backers claim their men would give the national ticket particular strength in the middle-western agricultural belt.

George E. Brennan, National Committee man and chairman of the Illinois delegation, has refused to commit himself on the vice presidency, contending that the second place on the ticket can be filled by the presidential nominee, whose wishes should be observed.

Norman L. Jones, a former candidate for Illinois Governor, and a townsman of Rainey, has probably the most active proposition to the veteran Congressman, who now is serving his twelfth term in the House of Representatives. Allen T. Lucas of Champaignville also has interested himself in the Rainey candidacy.

The Illinois delegation in Sam
Houston hall was flooded by the torrential downpour that swept Houston around the dinner hour last night, but the force of convention hall workers had dried out the chairs and swabbed up the pools of water before the first of the delegates entered the session.

When A Girl Loves

THIS HAS HAPPENED
VIRGINIA BREWSTER is in love with NATHANIEL DANN.
But she is tricked into promising to marry FREDERICK DEAN, who one year ago she failed to earn $100,000 that he alleges her father cheated him out of. BREWSTER had lost his fortune before his death and VIRGINIA is left destitute.

She pawns her jewelry and OLL-IVER CUTLER promises to invest the money for her. She seeks work without success, and discovers that DEAN has bribed the agency not to help her. OLLIVER loses her confidence and shows her attention which NIEL resents, but she does not like the way his model, CHIRI, treats him.

CHIRI, the model, obtains a position she likes. Shortly after she is charged by CUTLER's wife with trying to alienate his affections.

She appeals to him to explain, and demands an accounting of her investments. He confesses that he has not made a penny for her, but says that he will give her any amount if she will go away with him. She denounces him and leaves his office.

Her firm requests her to go on a ship. She agrees. This separation, together with the CUTLER affair on one hand and the other, causes a love
quarrel between her and NIEL, which is not mended before VIR-GINIA sails.

They both suffer, but her work and the hope of getting aid from one of her father's friends, O. D.
LEIGH, in Haiti, help VIRGINIA endure the heartache. She learns from a passenger on board that NIEL is in Haiti, helping VIRGINIA because of domestic trouble and dare not ask about his financial status.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

ARLINGTON'S RACE MEET TO END SATURDAY

Unfavorable Weather Has Not Seriously Hurt Meeting

(Telegraph Special Service)

Chicago, June 27th — Inclement weather, track conditions unsuited to the sport at Arlington Park, Chicago's great racing plant, have not diminished the interest of the public as might have been expected. The spring meeting of the American National Jockey Club has entered on its final week with every prospect for a brilliant finale next Saturday when the star attraction, the American National Turf and Field Handicap, will be decided. The winner of this mile and one-eighth race will be rewarded with close to $20,000 and a rating entitling the victor to be regarded as a star of the first degree.

Among the many cracks in the 3-year-old and upward division eligible to this contest is Toro, winner of the American Derby at Arlington Park and the Latonia Derby. He has no other engagements West or East this week, consequently there is the possibility that he may be sent to the post. There is a tendency to view Toro as one of the outstanding performers of the day. Many hold to the belief that he is the master of Reigh Court or any other horse of top class.

Johnny Schorr, trainer of Toro said, following Toro's triumph in the American Derby, he would show that this 3-year-old son of the Porter-Bracette could and would demonstrate championship form. Schorr's prophecy is being verified.

Misstep is at Arlington Park to renew the duel with Toro. Before the middle of the week other horses of high merit will be on the scene to strive for the rich prize Saturday. Eligibles in the race include Mike Hall, Crystal Pennant, Galahad, Calfman, Sir Harry, Victorian, Vito, Flat Iron, Chicago, Handy Mandy, Black Panther, Rhinoc, Rolled Stocking, Dolan, Kentucky 2nd, Clean Play, Tara's Hall, Ariel, Mowlee, Kiev, Agitator, Jack Higgins, Sankari, Sweepster, Reigh Olga, Irish Pal, Eugene S., Sun God, 2nd, Cudgeller, Chairman, Blackwood, Dark Phantom, Wacker Drive, Nimba, Valorous, Boot to Boot, Buddy Sauer, American Son, Edisto, Charmarten and Display.

Frank J. Bruen, general manager, expects this to be the greatest week of the Arlington Park season. He is asking for nothing but rare days in June, the sparkle of the sun and fast footings for the greatest thoroughbreds in American racing.

Watching the Big Scoreboard

The daily shift of baseball fortunes and the Washington Senators and the Brooklyn Robins holding that part of the spotlight not devoted to the two pace-setting clubs, the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees.

Before Bucky Harris could get the boys working together this season the Senators had tumbled into the cellar. A few weeks ago the pitchers decided they might as well pitch and the batters arrived at the conclusion that it might be fun to hit once in a while. Today Bucky and his crew were in fourth place, three and a half games back of the St. Louis Browns.

Wilbert Robinson's troubles at Brooklyn have been a bit different.

The Dodgers burnt up the league during the first few weeks. Then a couple of Wilbert's pitchers went on sick leave and the Robins began to tumble. But the high-powered Dodger staff is operating on all six again and Bobby's famous smile again is on display.

Robby almost laughed out loud yesterday when the Dodgers beat the Braves twice at Boston and hurdled from fifth place to third, leaping over the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds enroute. Bill Clark had no trouble stopping the Braves in the first game, 5 to 1. Jack Flowers' single in the ninth scored the tying and winning run in the Robins' 6 to 5 victory in the nightcap.

The New York Giants consolidated their position in second place with their third straight verdict over the Phils, 7 to 6.

The Cubs finished all square in a twin bill at Chicago with the Corsairs of Pittsburgh. Burleigh Grimes put the Pirates one up with a four hit shut out in the first contest, 1 to 0. Miljus, Burwell and Dawson, however, could not make it in a row, the Pirates bowing, 7 to 3 in the nightcap.

Barnes, Senators' outfielder, drove out two home runs that accounted for all of Washington's runs in a 4 to 1 victory over the faltering Philadelphia Athletics, who dropped more ground to the barnstorming Yankees in the American League race.

That rising young star from St. Mary's College, Larry Bettencourt, crashed out a home run with the bases filled and the Browns evened the series with the Cleveland Indians, 6 to 3.

Harry Hellmann, American League batting champion of 1927, was benched as the Detroit lineup suffered a drastic shakeup but the Tigers dropped another game to the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 2, Grady Adkins giving up only three safe hits.

PROBLEMS FACING STATE HOSPITAL OFFICERS TOLD

Dr. Murray Addressed Kiwanis Club Tuesday at Luncheon

Dr. Warren G. Murray, managing officer of the Dixon State Hospital gave a very interesting talk at the regular meeting of the Dixon Kiwanis club at noon yesterday, detailing briefly, many of the more important incidents connected with the daily life of the institution, as well as the manner in which patients are handled and their classification.

"I am often asked the question," Dr. Murray said in opening his talk, "the difference between an insane and a feeble-minded patient. In response to this I can say that there is a vast difference. Included in the feeble-minded group we find those who are not responsible for their own acts. There is also a vast difference medically between the insane and feeble-minded classes."

Following up his introduction, Dr. Murray explained the manner of commitment of patients to the institution and then the different types of insanity. In the feeble-minded class, he said, there appeared a retardation or stoppage, often at an early stage in life, although there were many other types in the same classification. Many are of the idiotic group, where the head is large and the skull quite thin. Another type presents a small head with a slightly thicker skull.

Some Open to Parole

"Another question that often comes to our attention, is that of the final disposition of the patients, whether or not they are lost in the institution once they are committed. In some of the classes patients are subject to parole, when it is found that they have recovered sufficiently under treatment as to be able to leave the institution. The parole period lasts for 90 days and under this provision, they are usually discharged as being improved. Should they have to be returned, it is not necessary to recommit them under the parole system."

"The feeble-minded group are committed to the institution by the courts for life. The law provides that they are subject to parole from the institution not to exceed two weeks of the calendar year. At the Dixon State Hospital we are trying to make these feeble-minded patients self-supporting by the introduction of industrial training which is carried on extensively in many of the departments. You will find patients building walks and roads, working in the laundry and in the industrial departments."

For More Buildings

"I am glad to be able at this time to announce that in our program of building, additional space is being set aside and will be ready in the near future for the extending of this important branch of treatment, and increasing materially our present equipment, which is limited."

"It might be of interest to you to know that two new wards are to be built at the institution of a capacity of 125 patients each. Added to the improvements which are now under way, the institution will have a capacity of slightly more than 3,000 patients. When completed the Dixon state hospital will rank as one of the largest in the country and will, due to its natural beauty and architectural in construction, be the most beautiful in Illinois.

Mental Delinquents

"The institution is handicapped in the handling of mental defective delinquents. Patients of this classification were formerly committed to penal institutions such as Pontiac, but now they are committed as feeble-minded. They are of the trouble-making type and like the epileptics, have the power of organization. It is this class of patients which are the most disagreeable to handle and give us the most trouble. We have had breaks for liberty made by this class of patients."

"It is my opinion that being two different types of patients they should be treated in separate institutions. New York state supports a separate institution for this class of delinquent defectives and many of them are in cells a greater portion of the time. Different types of treatment are necessary in their care and they must be closely watched. We are trying to give as much liberty as possible to every one of our patients consistent with the safety of the public as well as the safety of the patient."

Moron Farm Needed

"The matter of instituting a moron farm in Illinois for this class of delinquents has been discussed. New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts, leaders in the United States in the care of defectives, with Illinois as a close contender, have adopted different institutions for the care and supervision of this class of patients and I believe that it should be done in this state."

"We have been criticised as to the style of clothing worn by the patients at the local institution. In reply to this criticism, I would say that I am not averse to the wearing of overalls. In fact I believe that a clean pair of overalls and a clean body that is bathed several times each week, is better for the patient than a suit of clothes that has been worn for months without being washed."

Dr. Murray also explained some of the many other problems which come to the attention of the management of the state institution daily, chief among which is the question of selection of employees and the task of preventing difficulty arising and being averted among them as well as the patients.

The meeting was a most successful as well as interesting one. H. A. Smith of the firm of Royer, Daneley & Smith, architects of Champaign, who drafted the plans for the new Dixon high school was present and spoke briefly. He explained the method of construction of the building and the preliminary details incidental to the beginning of work. Bruce Bauer, accompanied at the piano by Dr. Raymond Worsley, entertained with two fine miramba-phone solo numbers.

PSYCHOLOGICAL HOLDUP.

New York.—Psychology has been proved a failure in the holdup racket. George Hoffman has been studying the "A.B.C. of Psychology." Armed with the book and a crowbar he attempted to rob a Bronx butcher. However, things failed to work out according to Hoyle. The crowbar didn't put the butcher to sleep and when he started howling for help (contrary to psychological premeditation) George headed for the elevated stairway only to be caught in the arms of Patrolman Corcoran.

SEEK COP ADONIS.

Utica, N. Y.—Lawbreakers of this city haven't half the chance they used to have. Talk among old-time criminals is that crime isn't what it used to be. It's all because the city policemen who are over weight are forced to use the new ray-lancing machine recently installed in the police station and must get down to a perfect "36." Officials contend that with less weight the cops can run faster, and thus catch crooks where previously they had failed.

Godfrey, Ill.—An inkwell in the possession of L. H. Maxfield here bears the date 1779. It is made of pewter and is square, with such a small opening at the top that a pen can scarcely be inserted.

Alliance, O.—With an appropriate slogan, "Anywhere in the United States by Air," the Alliance Aviation School has started business here. The landing field occupies a space of about 2200 by 600 feet and has been constructed to comply with all government regulations.

HELD UP THE MAIL.

Columbus, O.—While chasing a speeding motorist, Policeman A. J. Lloyd struck mail carrier Walter Moore and broke his leg. As a result, the mail along Moore's route was delayed. Moore stepped from behind a parked machine as Lloyd wheeled by and the crash was inevitable. Lloyd picked up the scattered mail and returned it to the postoffice.
